

ABSTRACT

METHOD FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A COMMUNICATION LINK

An architecture and a signaling process are created for transmitting call images from a first telecommunication device to a second telecommunication device to establish communication link from the first telecommunication device to the second telecommunication device is established via a telecommunication network. The inventive method is suitable particularly for establishing a connection for call image transmission between SIP supporting telephones and non-SIP supporting telephones.